

NOTICE

THERE IS MEDICATION, DON'T WORRY!

Now is time for care and prevention.

The pharmaceutical industry committed to meeting the needs of Brazilian society and working with Brazilian authorities against the Covid-19 pandemic, informs the population:

- The pharmaceutical industry is operating normally to produce the medications necessary for the population.
- There are enough medications at distribution centers to meet demand over the coming months. Therefore, there is no need to stock up on these products at home.
- The Brazilian government, Ministry of Health and the Brazilian Health Regulatory Agency (ANVISA) have received updated reports from pharmaceutical industry representatives showing that production of medications remains at regular levels.
- The pharmaceutical industry remains in contact with Brazilian health authorities in order to monitor the situation and adopt new measures, if necessary.
- Our factories follow strict safety standards, and our employees are monitored daily so that they can continue producing quality medications while complying with all safety protocols.
- The pharmaceutical and distribution workforces are committed to ensuring supply at this difficult time.
- The pharmaceutical industry is deeply engaged in global efforts to develop vaccines and drugs against Covid-19 in keeping with its history of social responsibility.

The pharmaceutical industry is working for the Brazilian population and will continue to provide access to medications in order to support the country's needs.
